Nine additional credits fulfilled at Mechanicsburg, Grenada, Spain, or Valparaiso, Chile.
Students may select among a variety of humanities courses that may include art history, culture, grammar, literature, or political science. Students should confirm with the Department of Modern Languages that the courses that they select are approved for the Spanish minor. Students who do not study in Grenada or Valparaiso may include a cross-cultural course [IDCC 260] to a Spanish-speaking country directed by a faculty member from the Department of Modern Languages (or by approval of the Department Chair) among the nine additional credits. Assignments for the cross-cultural course must be completed in Spanish.

Note: Students who demonstrated proficiency to the 201 level need to take 18 credits at the 206 level and higher.

Requirements for students who declare the minor in 2017-18.
